New for 2012 - Safety Service Award

For consistently and unselfishly contributing passion, innovation, and guidance by his personal example on all safety matters. Specifically, over several decades he has freely coached and encouraged pilots of all skill and experience levels, but particularly rookies, and including abandoning his own XC flight to core down and help a struggling pilot. He has also generated turnpoint databases which greatly enhance situational awareness, led endless talks on safety, developed tools and techniques to improve the safety of ground operations with motorgliders, and led the Williams Racing Program with a particular emphasis on advancing safe XC flight operations for rookies. He exemplifies what it means to be a champion of safety in soaring by sustained hard work and fresh ideas. Soaring needs more of this type of behavior if we are to improve our safety record.
